Well winter vacation is now over and it's time to get ready for the dive season. Classes are now forming so I need to get in the water and get my skills refined. Check the dive schedule to the left for dates I'll be in the water, click on any date to a link to complete details. I also have listed to the right my wreck trips planned for this season, some are already filled others are close to being filled. Click on the trip for a link to more details and cost for that trip.

See you in the water

In the month of March I will be signing up students for the OPEN WATER DIVER course. As an incentive I will give all new students a 15% discount off the basic gear package, which includes Mask, Snorkel, Fins, Boots & gloves. More info here

TDI Nitrox class: Sign up for the TDI Nitrox class in the month of March and get 15% discount on the required workbook and EAD tables. More info here:

Other items of interest:

I'm working a new web site and hoping to have it ready to launch in the very near future. However until that happens please keep checking the old site for any and all dive updates.

I have a few students signed up for advanced classes; I hope to get them in the water early in April. By watching the dive schedule on my web page you will know when I'm diving as soon as I know. In most cases I would welcome tag a longs.
